Fang Shen Named a 2021 Kansas City Business Journal NextGen Leader

Husch Blackwell's Fang Shen has been named to the Kansas City Business Journal's 2021 NextGen Leaders program.

The NextGen Leaders program, honoring 25 rising stars in Kansas City business, "seeks to recognize budding talent and to connect these emerging leaders while helping build their knowledge and skill sets."

A partner in Husch Blackwell's Food & Agriculture industry group and a leader of its Asia team, Shen is a bilingual and bicultural attorney who concentrates on domestic and international mergers and acquisitions, loans and financing, corporate structure and joint ventures, global manufacturing and distribution, and trade compliance. She is active in Kansas City's international community, serving on the Boards of Directors of the Asian Chamber of Commerce of Greater Kansas City, the Kansas City Chinese Association, and the Society for Friendship with China.

A panel of six judges selected the honorees, who will be profiled in the June 25 edition of the Kansas City Business Journal.
