OVERVIEW

Kenyon takes pride in guiding clients through buy- and sell-side deals, strategic investments, and corporate formation and structuring projects. From overseeing cross-border transactions to working with local startups, Kenyon excels at juggling the varying matters that arise while helping his clients achieve their goals.

Kenyon routinely represents privately-held companies looking to buy and sell businesses as well as private equity funds looking to strategically invest in the U.S. and internationally. Clients trust him to advise on the letter of intent, lead legal due diligence, negotiate the transaction documents, and close the deal.

In addition to full purchase and sale transactions, Kenyon works with emerging companies looking to grow. These clients are typically working to raise capital with an eye on an eventual exit, and Kenyon's transactional experience provides an invaluable perspective to help them take their businesses to the next level.

Above all else, Kenyon finds client satisfaction the most fulfilling part of his job. He's excited to advance clients' personal and business goals. Clients often praise Kenyon for having a calming presence and always working to find a solution to touch roadblocks.
