OVERVIEW

Tanya helps education clients navigate complex issues so they can focus on their mission: student education.

In addition to her 14 years of corporate law experience – both at large law firms and in-house – clients appreciate Tanya’s perspective and practical approach to legal matters after serving as the first general counsel for a large community college. As former general counsel of a League for Innovation college, she understands the operational aspects at institutions of higher learning and how these day-to-day demands intersect with legal risk, compliance and governance. Colleges, universities and other education clients rely on Tanya as a well-rounded and experienced legal and business partner when faced with issues such as:

- Clery Act
- Title IX
- Title IV
- Union contracts
- Tenure disputes
- Accreditation
- Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)
- Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA)
