OVERVIEW

Working closely with governmental entities, Logan handles public law matters in a manner tailored to each client's specific needs and priorities.

As a Texas public law attorney, Logan focuses her practice on advising a wide range of governmental entities, from local government corporations and special districts to cities and counties. She regularly serves clients as outside general and special counsel and works with clients to ensure compliance with open government and ethical requirements.

Logan regularly attends board meetings, drafts and negotiates contracts, facilitates compliance with open meeting and public information requirements, provides board training and policies, and advises on economic development and expansion. Logan also advises on all aspects of land acquisition and real estate matters for large-scale infrastructure projects with a focus on condemnation and eminent domain. Public entities rely on Logan's sound judgment to help them accomplish their governmental functions, overcome obstacles, and leverage opportunities, keeping in mind their long-term goals and public relations needs.
