OVERVIEW

Larisa focuses on mass tort and product liability litigation.

Larisa pursued a legal career out of a desire to help people, embrace challenges, and advocate for others. During law school, she was particularly drawn to civil procedure and evidence courses, which steered her towards litigation. Participating in a criminal defense clinic further solidified her interest in defense work and litigation.

Larisa's interest in mass tort and product liability stems from her passion for advocacy and problem-solving. She appreciates the complex issues this field of legal work entails and tackles them head-on.

As a summer associate at Husch Blackwell, Larisa worked on litigation matters within the mass tort, product liability, and white collar groups. She drafted motions and memos, attended depositions and court hearings, and investigated accident scenes.

Larisa is known for her fearless attitude towards new challenges, strong work ethic, and outgoing personality. A trusted professional who excels at getting the job done, she is a valuable asset to clients and the firm.
