

WHITE PAPERS

PUBLISHED: NOVEMBER 14, 2018

The Fiction of the One-Year Warranty

In the construction law space, a common misconception is the concept that exposure to claims ends after the expiration of a one-year warranty.

The Fiction of the One-year Warranty

The false sense of security a construction firm may have after its one-year contractual warranty expires can lead to problems if post-warranty claims are not handled correctly. A written warranty is like any other clause in a contract – it is an agreement between the parties with a certain scope defined by its terms. Believing that a construction firm's exposure to claims ends after a year is the fiction of the one-year warranty.

Read the full white paper.

Services

Construction &
Design

Corporate Real Estate

Industry

Real Estate,
Development &
Construction

Professional

JOSHUA B. LEVY

MILWAUKEE:

414.978.5554

JOSHUA.LEVY@

HUSCHBLACKWELL.COM